RED CAUCASIAN TROOPS SENT TOWARD KOREAN BATTLEFRONT

Hoover Lashes Out

Former President Hits Secret Pacts

DES MOINES, Ia., Aug. 30—Herbert Hoover, speaking on Iowa soil where he began in boyhood his climb to the Presidency, today denounced immorality in government.

He lashed out at "those who coquette with traitorship."

He charged that "certain secret commitments were entered into at Teheran and Yalta which sold the freedom of a half billion people down the river."

The former President cited the pledge of "our sacred honor" taken by the nation's founding fathers and asked what they would think of "the five percenters, mink coats, deep freezers and free hotel bills."

He assailed "favoritism in government loans and government contracts" and "failures to prosecute evil-doers who spread cancerous rackets and gambling rings with their train of bribed officials."

But he said he could give reassurance as to the future because "moral indignation is on the march again."

• • •

HOOVER SPOKE at the 93rd Iowa State Fair in Des Moines 20 days after his 78th birthday and was honored by his native state with a plaque and scroll commemorating his achievements in statesmanship, humanitarianism and administration.

Hoover said he was less concerned at stealing public money than with "far more destructive forms of dishonor" and continued:

"What would the founding fathers have thought of those who coquette with traitorship? or of secret and disastrous commitments of our nation which were denied at the time?

Without mentioning the Roosevelt and Truman Administrations by name, Hoover asked:

"Does anybody believe that the propaganda-promoted foreign policies over the past dozen years has always been right: or that there has always been a disclosure of the whole truth?

"For example, certain secret commitments were entered into at Teheran and Yalta which sold the freedom of a half billion people down the river."

He said the Chinese Communists were falsely labeled "agrarian liberals" and added:

"From that perversion of truth alone, we suffered a gigantic defeat of free men in China."

Mutual Defense Pact Is Signed With Philippines

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30—The U. S. and the Philippines today signed a historic mutual defense pact and President Truman said it marks an important new step to "check aggression and defend the rights of free peoples."

President Elpidio Quirino of the Philippines, who flew to Washington for the colorful ceremonies, hailed the treaty signing as the "first milestone on the road toward the enduring security of the Pacific area."

Secretary of State Acheson, before affixing his pen to the treaty, declared that, "it serves to tell the rest of the world that the Philippines and the U. S. stand together in the Pacific." Reviewing the 50 years of U. S.-Philippine relations, Acheson hailed the economic and political advances made under President Quirino.

Mr. Truman said the new ties between the two countries "demonstrates to all nations that we intend to continue our common course and to work together in the future, as we have in the past, for peace for all mankind."

The pact pledges the strategic islands and the U. S. to a mutual defense program and marks the first formal agreement of several scheduled in the Pacific region.

ALTHOUGH IN PERFECT CONDITION and with no mileage recorded, this cute baby girl was found parked in a used car lot in McCook, Ill. About four days old when discovered by police, the child was sleeping in an auto that bore a "For Sale" sign. She was taken to the MacNeal Memorial Hospital and reported in fine shape.

'WE MUST DRAW A LINE'

Dewey Says Policy Needed For Free World In Asia

NEW YORK, Aug. 30—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey declared today after completing a 41,000-mile tour of the Far East that America's "immediate and critical necessity" is to build a definite policy for the Free World in Asia.

The New York governor said such a policy is lacking now.

"We must draw a line and let the Communists know what the consequences will be if they cross it," Dewey asserted.

Included behind that line, he said, should be Southeast Asia, which he declared is a natural target for a Red drive.

Dewey arrived at New York International (Idlewild) Airport at 11:07 p. m., EDT last night, ending a two-months personal inspection of war, economic and political conditions on the Korean battlefront, the Far East, Australia and Alaska.

• • •

THE GOVERNOR, at a subsequent news conference, also said:

1. He personally believes the Communists want a truce in Korea because they have been "taking a terrible beating."

2. Russia's action in sending her diplomatic delegation to the forthcoming Japanese Peace Treaty signing ceremonies in San Francisco is "a propaganda effort because they want to scuttle the treaty, if possible."

3. The story that he would be willing to run for the presidency in the event Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower refuses to accept the Republican nomination is "silly."

Dewey told newsmen his over-all and most important impression of his Far Eastern trip was that "our immediate and critical necessity is to build a total policy concerning the Free World in Asia."

"It's got to be a whole policy or it will fail," said Dewey. "You can't deal with it in bits and pieces as we have been doing in the past.

"We invited the Communist attack on South Korea by announcing we would not defend that region and by withdrawing a large portion of our occupation troops.

"We lost China to the Free World. We can't afford any more losses."

Truce Hopes Hit New Low Amid Verbal Battle

TOKYO, Aug. 30 — Hopes for a Korea armistice sank to a new low tonight amid charges and counter-charges of "liar" from both Allied and Communist camps.

The first reaction of the Reds to General Ridgway's refusal to back down on a Communist demand for "reinvestigation" of the alleged Allied bombing of the Kaesong truce zone was a Peiping radio blast which said the UN commander was "like a criminal afraid of his trial."

Pessimism about the possibility of resuming the broken-off Kaesong peace talks was reflected in a United Nations headquarters statement which said:

"Resumption of talks no longer seems to hold the promise of a possible agreement on a cease-fire that it did a month ago.

• • •

"IT MUST also be clear there is only one way to deal with such people—with resolution of mind as well as strength of arms. Both are possessed by the United Nations command."

Ridgway in a formal message to the Red chieftains Tuesday left it strictly up to the Communists to decide whether they want all-out war or peace.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 30—Coast Guardsmen from Cleveland, Lorain and Fairport teamed up with lake shippers today to search the Lake Erie shoreline for 10-year-old Beverly Potts, object of a nation-wide hunt.

Deputy Police Inspector James E. McArthur has also asked members of several Coast Guard auxiliaries to aid in the search. Policemen from the city's academy are to comb the area about the Cleveland-Hopkins Airport.

The mysterious disappearance of the blond, blue-eyed girl, missing from a west side playground since Friday night, has caused the greatest public response in the last 20 years.

Pickaway Corn Growers Begin Cutting Programs

Pickaway County's corn fields are beginning to be dotted with shocks of fodder as local corn growers open with their annual corn-cutting programs.

Many stands of corn in rocky, sandy fields have been cut and stacked, while others are now in process of being cut.

Only a small amount of picking by machinery has been done in the county to date, however, and that only for feeding purposes.

For the most part, Pickaway County corn growers can expect a crop of high quality corn from this year's planting, although the yield may not be as great as in past years.

Reason for the lower yield, as well as the early cutting, is due to the lack of rainfall here during August. However, County Agent Larry Best points out that the local farmers were not as badly affected by the meagre rainfall as farmers in nearby counties.

Best said that from all early indications the local corn crop will be of high quality with solid, well filled ears, although a lighter yield may be expected.

Group Enters Excise Field

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30—The Senate Finance Committee jumped into the controversial field of excise taxes today

Excise tax increases totalling one billion 252 million dollars in annual revenue were voted by the House. They would apply on alcoholic beverages, cigarettes, manufactured goods, gambling and other items.

Disalle Asks Control Law Changes

Appears Before Senate Group

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 — Price Chief DiSalle told Congress today that repeal of three controversial provisions in the new controls law would be a major step toward a "sound and workable stabilization program."

Although the result would not be a "perfect price control law," he said, it would be more "fair and equitable" than the present act.

He said that some price increases are inevitable, but he promised that whatever Congress does "we will do the best, most honest, most sincere job within our power to accomplish."

DiSalle and Defense Mobilizer Wilson were the first witnesses before the Senate Banking Committee at hearings on President Truman's request for repeal of these provisions:

• • •

1. THE CAPEHART amendment which allows sellers to pass on to consumers all cost increases from the start of the Korean War to last July 26.

2. The Herlong amendment which grants retailers and wholesalers their pre-Korean percentage profit margins on each item.

3. The Butler-Hope amendment which outlaws slaughtering quotas.

DiSalle pointed out that the jurisdiction of the Office of Price Stabilization is limited and even within its own field "an absolute holding of the price line may not be possible." He added:

"Some cost increases are bound to occur. We cannot and should not close our eyes to these."

Defense Mobilizer Wilson told Congress that "the danger of inflation is not over and that a real possibility of runaway inflation lies ahead."

Wilson told the committee "the main thrust of our mobilization program is production. . . the success of our production program is largely dependent upon effective stabilization."

The top production official added:

• • •

"FAILURE to maintain a stable economy would deaden the initiative and ingenuity upon which production depends. Inflation would stimulate the production of non-essential goods. It would increase the cost of the defense program. . .

"Both production and stabilization are vital to the national security and to the preservation of the free enterprise system. Without both of them, we would have no defense and our way of life would be destroyed."

Reds Switch To Infiltration Tactics In Korea

KOREA, Aug. 30 — Communist forces in eastern Korea switched tactics Wednesday from frontal assaults to infiltration and overran one United Nations command post north of Yanggu.

All along the sector north and northeast of Yanggu on the East Central front the Reds infiltrated and probed Allied lines after apparently finding that direct attacks on UN positions had failed.

Shortly after dawn the infiltrating Reds attacked the command post and quickly overran it, forcing the Allied troops to withdraw.

Allied artillery was then called in and accounted for 15 Red casualties before counterattacking UN troops engaged the enemy, who employed small arms, automatic weapons and mortars, and drove them from the position after an hour's battle.

POLICE TUG MIGHTILY to subdue an 800-pound heifer which evidently did not want to be taken to the slaughterhouse in Philadelphia. The brown and white animal broke loose and ran wild for an hour, inflicting minor injuries on two women and two policemen before a slaughterhouse worker killed it (above) with an ax. Note the boys watching from a safe distance behind automobiles.

MANY WILL BE UNTOUCHED

Ohio Farm Co-Ops May Feel Tax Blow For First Time

COLUMBUS, Aug. 30—A number of Ohio's farm cooperatives will feel the impact of taxes for the first time if a Senate-proposed slash in exemptions goes through.

The Senate Finance Committee voted yesterday in Washington to reduce exemptions for farm and consumer "co-ops."

As approved by the committee, cooperatives will remain exempt only if total assets, not including inventory, are under $100,000.

The exclusion of inventory means a great number of co-ops will stay on the exempt list in Ohio.

However, exempt co-ops must meet other requirements. Ninety-five percent of the members in a cooperative must be "individuals" and not corporations. Those doing business with the federal government must pay patronage dividends to the government as well as regular members.

• • •

FOR THE most part, some 142 farm elevators owned or rented on a cooperative basis in Ohio will continue operations tax-free. Some, however, have warehouses, trucks and machine shops which may boost total assets over the $100,000 mark.

The Ohio Council of Farm Co-operatives listed the total net worth of farm elevators in the state last year at $15 million.

In some cases the matter of exemption will depend on when an elevator was purchased—before or after inflation.

The Senate Committee was aiming mainly at the big co-ops such as the Ohio Farm Bureau. More than half of the small rural cooperatives in the nation will continue exempt.

In addition to the Ohio Farm Bureau the cut in tax exemptions doubtless would take in a number of cooperative marketing associations in the state. One such case could be some livestock producers associations which have sizeable assets in buildings and livestock pens.

Farm Bureau Treasurer Kenneth Probasco said a few of the bureau's 83 county offices also would feel the impact of the cut in exemptions. It was pointed out that some county offices of the Farm Bureau do a business of well over one million dollars a year.

• • •

MORRIS Allton, assistant legislative director for the farm bureau, said "we feel the present program for cooperative taxes are entirely fair." He charged the National Tax Equality Association was seeking "liquidation of the co-ops."

Allton claimed the Farm Bureau pays the same taxes as 85 percent of business. He pointed out that the Farm Bureau paid $1,500,000 in regular business taxes last year.

A total of $74,314,000 is invested in farm co-ops in Ohio. On the basis of the latest U.S. census showing 199,303 farms in the state, this is an average of $375 per farm.

The Ohio Council of Farm Co-operatives lists 14 types of farm cooperatives in the state. These take in 46 dairy marketing associations, 17 livestock and wool marketing co-ops and 28 rural electric cooperatives.

Brief Career Is Predicted For Czech Ambassador

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30—Diplomatic quarters freely predicted an unhappy, unsuccessful — and brief—U.S. career for Czechoslovakia's new ambassador Vladimir Prochazka.

The new envoy made his official bow on Tuesday when he presented his credentials to President Truman. The occasion was not auspicious.

The President, in unusual diplomatic language which matched that of the Moscow anti-American broadcasts, told Prochazka that there is little chance for improved relations between the two countries as long as American Newsman William N. Oatis is held in a Prague jail.

Mr. Truman's approach was mild compared to that of Secretary of State Acheson, who held his first conferennce with Prochazka yesterday. It lasted half an hour. The secretary avoided the customary handclasp with the envoy, whom he stiffly motioned to a chair.

• • •

ACHESON GAVE a more detailed report to Prochazka on U.S. reaction to the Oatis case. He gave him a copy of a joint congressional resolution calling on the U. S. to sever all trade relations with Czechsolovakia until Oatis is released.

Visibly shaken by his talk with Acheson, the diplomat was more sure of his answers when he was surrounded by a cordon of obviously hostile newsmen.

He told them that his government takes the position that Oatis was tried by a court of competent jurisdiction and not for being a newsman.

Truman Claims UN Forces Strong

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30—President Truman said today that United Nations forces in Korea are not only strong but ready to resume large - scale fighting if that is what the Red Chinese want.

The president said this at his news conference in agreeing with a similar statement by Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, the UN commander in chief in the Far East.

The President said he backs up Gen. Ridgway one hundred percent and that the general knows what he's talking about when he says that his forces are in a stronger position than they were when the truce talks began some weeks ago.

Senate Crime Group Finishes Work On Report

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30—The Senate Crime Committee today put the finishing touches on a final report which is expected to contain a proposal for a United Nations attack on the international dope racket.

Informed sources said the recommendation would be one of a number designed to stop the flow of heroin and other insidious drugs to the nation's youngsters.

The committee has heard testimony that much of the U.S. heroin supply comes from Italy, where the quantity produced is far beyond that needed for legitimate medical needs.

The senators are expected also to propose a system of circularizing marine and waterfront unions to warn them against members or would-be members who have records of narcotics offenses.

The committee, which expires at midnight Friday, is slated to release the 130-page summary of its more than one year of headline-making investigations on Friday or Saturday.

• • •

THIS "LAST will and testament" reportedly will urge the Senate Commerce Committee to take over the crime group's unfinished business.

It is also expected to deal at length with the activities of one-time Bootleg King Abner "Longie" Zwillman.

The committee's recent hearings on crime and politics in New York City and New Jersey were loaded with references to Zwillman's activities in many lines. He was revealed as a power in New Jersey politics and as a tremendously wealthy man with holdings in many legitimate business enterprises.

Committee Counsel Richard Moser has declared that Zwillman may turn out to be "more important than Frank Costello" and the report is expected to indicate committee concern over his activities—and his failure to come and testify.

Prisoners Say Coming Drive Big

Offensive May Start Next Month

TOKYO, Aug. 30—Five thousand Communist Caucasian troops with at least 70 tanks are headed toward the Western battlefront today in preparation for a possible all-out offensive if the armistice talks fail.

Captured Communist soldiers talk in terms of a big September offensive and many have told Allied interrogators that they believe the September offensive in Korea will be the start of World War Three.

The Caucasian unit, moving with tanks that have flown the white flag for protection, is only one part of a massive Communist buildup and is not the only Caucasian outfit spotted in North Korea. It is apart and distinct from the international "volunteer" unit of Czechs, Hungarians, Romanians and men from other Soviet satellites whose organization has been heralded by Communist radio propagandists.

• • •

INTERNATIONAL News Service was informed by a highly reliable source in the United Nations headquarters today that:

1. In addition to the Caucasian units on the move south in Korea, there are two Chinese armored divisions and one North Korean armored division close to the battlelines.

2. Modern anti-aircraft and artillery units have been in action in Korea for some time.

3. In recent days the Communists have used anti - aircraft rockets which have been seen to burst at altitudes as high as 25,000 feet, indicating some of the best of modern armament has been sent to Korea. During the entire period of the cease-fire talks at Kaesong the Communists have made great strides in deploying their forces forward toward the battlelines.

Most prisoners of war captured in the continuing skirmishes and small scale battles of the past weeks have expressed their belief that the big Communist offensive will begin next month and also have said they believe World War Three will begin with that offensive.

This deployment for battle by the Communists is believed the basic reason for Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's refusal to yield any of his good defensive terrain in Korea.

Vice-Admiral C. Turner Joy said as much when he told the Communist truce negotiators the Allied command could not relinquish such terrain in the face of the possibility of a renewed offensive by numerically superior ground forces.

• • •

AGAINST this Communist buildup Ridgway and his top field commander, Gen. James A. Van Fleet, have entrenched United Nations forces in the strongest positions they have ever held in Korea.

The entry of Caucasian units in battle positions is of highest political importance for it foreshadows a possible fundamental change in the nature of the Korean War, a change which may be of even greater meaning than was the entrance of Chinese troops last Autumn.

But materially the Chinese buildup is of more immediate tactical importance.

RED CAUCASIAN TROOPS SENT TOWARD KOREAN BATTLEFRONT

Hoover Lashes Out

Former President Hits Secret Pacts

DES MOINES, Ia., Aug. 30—Herbert Hoover, speaking on Iowa soil where he began in boyhood his climb to the Presidency, today denounced immorality in government.

He lashed out at "those who coquette with traitorship."

He charged that "certain secret commitments were entered into at Teheran and Yalta which sold the freedom of a half billion people down the river."

The former President cited the pledge of "our sacred honor" taken by the nation's founding fathers and asked what they would think of "the five percenters, mink coats, deep freezers and free hotel bills."

He assailed "favoritism in government loans and government contracts" and "failures to prosecute evil-doers who spread cancerous rackets and gambling rings with their train of bribed officials."

But he said he could give reassurance as to the future because "moral indignation is on the march again."

• • •

HOOVER SPOKE at the 93rd Iowa State Fair in Des Moines 20 days after his 78th birthday and was honored by his native state with a plaque and scroll commemorating his achievements in statesmanship, humanitarianism and administration.

Hoover said he was less concerned at stealing public money than with "far more destructive forms of dishonor" and continued:

"What would the founding fathers have thought of those who coquette with traitorship? or of secret and disastrous commitments of our nation which were denied at the time?

Without mentioning the Roosevelt and Truman Administrations by name, Hoover asked:

"Does anybody believe that the propaganda-promoted foreign policies over the past dozen years has always been right: or that there has always been a disclosure of the whole truth?

"For example, certain secret commitments were entered into at Teheran and Yalta which sold the freedom of a half billion people down the river."

He said the Chinese Communists were falsely labeled "agrarian liberals" and added:

"From that perversion of truth alone, we suffered a gigantic defeat of free men in China."

Mutual Defense Pact Is Signed With Philippines

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30—The U. S. and the Philippines today signed a historic mutual defense pact and President Truman said it marks an important new step to "check aggression and defend the rights of free peoples."

President Elpidio Quirino of the Philippines, who flew to Washington for the colorful ceremonies, hailed the treaty signing as the "first milestone on the road toward the enduring security of the Pacific area."

Secretary of State Acheson, before affixing his pen to the treaty, declared that, "it serves to tell the rest of the world that the Philippines and the U. S. stand together in the Pacific." Reviewing the 50 years of U. S.-Philippine relations, Acheson hailed the economic and political advances made under President Quirino.

Mr. Truman said the new ties between the two countries "demonstrates to all nations that we intend to continue our common course and to work together in the future, as we have in the past, for peace for all mankind."

The pact pledges the strategic islands and the U. S. to a mutual defense program and marks the first formal agreement of several scheduled in the Pacific region.

ALTHOUGH IN PERFECT CONDITION and with no mileage recorded, this cute baby girl was found parked in a used car lot in McCook, Ill. About four days old when discovered by police, the child was sleeping in an auto that bore a "For Sale" sign. She was taken to the MacNeal Memorial Hospital and reported in fine shape.

'WE MUST DRAW A LINE'

Dewey Says Policy Needed For Free World In Asia

NEW YORK, Aug. 30—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey declared today after completing a 41,000-mile tour of the Far East that America's "immediate and critical necessity" is to build a definite policy for the Free World in Asia.

The New York governor said such a policy is lacking now.

"We must draw a line and let the Communists know what the consequences will be if they cross it," Dewey asserted.

Included behind that line, he said, should be Southeast Asia, which he declared is a natural target for a Red drive.

Dewey arrived at New York International (Idlewild) Airport at 11:07 p. m., EDT last night, ending a two-months personal inspection of war, economic and political conditions on the Korean battlefront, the Far East, Australia and Alaska.

• • •

THE GOVERNOR, at a subsequent news conference, also said:

1. He personally believes the Communists want a truce in Korea because they have been "taking a terrible beating."

2. Russia's action in sending her diplomatic delegation to the forthcoming Japanese Peace Treaty signing ceremonies in San Francisco is "a propaganda effort because they want to scuttle the treaty, if possible."

3. The story that he would be willing to run for the presidency in the event Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower refuses to accept the Republican nomination is "silly."

Dewey told newsmen his over-all and most important impression of his Far Eastern trip was that "our immediate and critical necessity is to build a total policy concerning the Free World in Asia."

"It's got to be a whole policy or it will fail," said Dewey. "You can't deal with it in bits and pieces as we have been doing in the past.

"We invited the Communist attack on South Korea by announcing we would not defend that region and by withdrawing a large portion of our occupation troops.

"We lost China to the Free World. We can't afford any more losses."

Truce Hopes Hit New Low Amid Verbal Battle

TOKYO, Aug. 30 — Hopes for a Korea armistice sank to a new low tonight amid charges and counter-charges of "liar" from both Allied and Communist camps.

The first reaction of the Reds to General Ridgway's refusal to back down on a Communist demand for "reinvestigation" of the alleged Allied bombing of the Kaesong truce zone was a Peiping radio blast which said the UN commander was "like a criminal afraid of his trial."

Pessimism about the possibility of resuming the broken-off Kaesong peace talks was reflected in a United Nations headquarters statement which said:

"Resumption of talks no longer seems to hold the promise of a possible agreement on a cease-fire that it did a month ago.

• • •

"IT MUST also be clear there is only one way to deal with such people—with resolution of mind as well as strength of arms. Both are possessed by the United Nations command."

Ridgway in a formal message to the Red chieftains Tuesday left it strictly up to the Communists to decide whether they want all-out war or peace.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 30—Coast Guardsmen from Cleveland, Lorain and Fairport teamed up with lake shippers today to search the Lake Erie shoreline for 10-year-old Beverly Potts, object of a nation-wide hunt.

Deputy Police Inspector James E. McArthur has also asked members of several Coast Guard auxiliaries to aid in the search. Policemen from the city's academy are to comb the area about the Cleveland-Hopkins Airport.

The mysterious disappearance of the blond, blue-eyed girl, missing from a west side playground since Friday night, has caused the greatest public response in the last 20 years.

Pickaway Corn Growers Begin Cutting Programs

Pickaway County's corn fields are beginning to be dotted with shocks of fodder as local corn growers open with their annual corn-cutting programs.

Many stands of corn in rocky, sandy fields have been cut and stacked, while others are now in process of being cut.

Only a small amount of picking by machinery has been done in the county to date, however, and that only for feeding purposes.

For the most part, Pickaway County corn growers can expect a crop of high quality corn from this year's planting, although the yield may not be as great as in past years.

Reason for the lower yield, as well as the early cutting, is due to the lack of rainfall here during August. However, County Agent Larry Best points out that the local farmers were not as badly affected by the meagre rainfall as farmers in nearby counties.

Best said that from all early indications the local corn crop will be of high quality with solid, well filled ears, although a lighter yield may be expected.

Group Enters Excise Field

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30—The Senate Finance Committee jumped into the controversial field of excise taxes today

Excise tax increases totalling one billion 252 million dollars in annual revenue were voted by the House. They would apply on alcoholic beverages, cigarettes, manufactured goods, gambling and other items.

Disalle Asks Control Law Changes

Appears Before Senate Group

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 — Price Chief DiSalle told Congress today that repeal of three controversial provisions in the new controls law would be a major step toward a "sound and workable stabilization program."

Although the result would not be a "perfect price control law," he said, it would be more "fair and equitable" than the present act.

He said that some price increases are inevitable, but he promised that whatever Congress does "we will do the best, most honest, most sincere job within our power to accomplish."

DiSalle and Defense Mobilizer Wilson were the first witnesses before the Senate Banking Committee at hearings on President Truman's request for repeal of these provisions:

• • •

1. THE CAPEHART amendment which allows sellers to pass on to consumers all cost increases from the start of the Korean War to last July 26.

2. The Herlong amendment which grants retailers and wholesalers their pre-Korean percentage profit margins on each item.

3. The Butler-Hope amendment which outlaws slaughtering quotas.

DiSalle pointed out that the jurisdiction of the Office of Price Stabilization is limited and even within its own field "an absolute holding of the price line may not be possible." He added:

"Some cost increases are bound to occur. We cannot and should not close our eyes to these."

Defense Mobilizer Wilson told Congress that "the danger of inflation is not over and that a real possibility of runaway inflation lies ahead."

Wilson told the committee "the main thrust of our mobilization program is production. . . the success of our production program is largely dependent upon effective stabilization."

The top production official added:

• • •

"FAILURE to maintain a stable economy would deaden the initiative and ingenuity upon which production depends. Inflation would stimulate the production of non-essential goods. It would increase the cost of the defense program. . .

"Both production and stabilization are vital to the national security and to the preservation of the free enterprise system. Without both of them, we would have no defense and our way of life would be destroyed."

Reds Switch To Infiltration Tactics In Korea

KOREA, Aug. 30 — Communist forces in eastern Korea switched tactics Wednesday from frontal assaults to infiltration and overran one United Nations command post north of Yanggu.

All along the sector north and northeast of Yanggu on the East Central front the Reds infiltrated and probed Allied lines after apparently finding that direct attacks on UN positions had failed.

Shortly after dawn the infiltrating Reds attacked the command post and quickly overran it, forcing the Allied troops to withdraw.

Allied artillery was then called in and accounted for 15 Red casualties before counterattacking UN troops engaged the enemy, who employed small arms, automatic weapons and mortars, and drove them from the position after an hour's battle.

MANY WILL BE UNTOUCHED

Ohio Farm Co-Ops May Feel Tax Blow For First Time

COLUMBUS, Aug. 30—A number of Ohio's farm cooperatives will feel the impact of taxes for the first time if a Senate-proposed slash in exemptions goes through.

The Senate Finance Committee voted yesterday in Washington to reduce exemptions for farm and consumer "co-ops."

As approved by the committee, cooperatives will remain exempt only if total assets, not including inventory, are under $100,000.

The exclusion of inventory means a great number of co-ops will stay on the exempt list in Ohio.

However, exempt co-ops must meet other requirements. Ninety-five percent of the members in a cooperative must be "individuals" and not corporations. Those doing business with the federal government must pay patronage dividends to the government as well as regular members.

• • •

FOR THE most part, some 142 farm elevators owned or rented on a cooperative basis in Ohio will continue operations tax-free. Some, however, have warehouses, trucks and machine shops which may boost total assets over the $100,000 mark.

The Ohio Council of Farm Cooperatives listed the total net worth of farm elevators in the state last year at $15 million.

In some cases the matter of exemption will depend on when an elevator was purchased—before or after inflation.

The Senate Committee was aiming mainly at the big co-ops such as the Ohio Farm Bureau. More than half of the small rural cooperatives in the nation will continue exempt.

In addition to the Ohio Farm Bureau the cut in tax exemptions doubtless would take in a number of cooperative marketing associations in the state. One such case could be some livestock producers associations which have sizeable assets in buildings and livestock pens.

Farm Bureau Treasurer Kenneth Probasco said a few of the bureau's 83 county offices also would feel the impact of the cut in exemptions. It was pointed out that some county offices of the Farm Bureau do a business of well over one million dollars a year.

• • •

MORRIS Allton, assistant legislative director for the farm bureau, said "we feel the present program for cooperative taxes are entirely fair." He charged the National Tax Equality Association was seeking "liquidation of the co-ops."

Allton claimed the Farm Bureau pays the same taxes as 85 percent of business. He pointed out that the Farm Bureau paid $1,500,000 in regular business taxes last year.

A total of $74,314,000 is invested in farm co-ops in Ohio. On the basis of the latest U.S. census showing 199,303 farms in the state, this is an average of $375 per farm.

The Ohio Council of Farm Cooperatives lists 14 types of farm cooperatives in the state. These take in 46 dairy marketing associations, 17 livestock and wool marketing co-ops and 28 rural electric cooperatives.

Brief Career Is Predicted For Czech Ambassador

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30—Diplomatic quarters freely predicted an unhappy, unsuccessful — and brief—U.S. career for Czechoslovakia's new ambassador Vladimir Prochazka.

The new envoy made his official bow on Tuesday when he presented his credentials to President Truman. The occasion was not auspicious.

The President, in unusual diplomatic language which matched that of the Moscow anti-American broadcasts, told Prochazka that there is little chance for improved relations between the two countries as long as American Newsman William N. Oatis is held in a Prague jail.

Mr. Truman's approach was mild compared to that of Secretary of State Acheson, who held his first conferennce with Prochazka yesterday. It lasted half an hour. The secretary avoided the customary handclasp with the envoy, whom he stiffly motioned to a chair.

• • •

ACHESON GAVE a more detailed report to Prochazka on U.S. reaction to the Oatis case. He gave him a copy of a joint congressional resolution calling on the U. S. to sever all trade relations with Czechsolovakia until Oatis is released.

Visibly shaken by his talk with Acheson, the diplomat was more sure of his answers when he was surrounded by a cordon of obviously hostile newsmen.

He told them that his government takes the position that Oatis was tried by a court of competent jurisdiction and not for being a newsman.

Truman Claims UN Forces Strong

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30—President Truman said today that United Nations forces in Korea are not only strong but ready to resume large - scale fighting if that is what the Red Chinese want.

The president said this at his news conference in agreeing with a similar statement by Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, the UN commander in chief in the Far East.

The President said he backs up Gen. Ridgway one hundred percent and that the general knows what he's talking about when he says that his forces are in a stronger position than they were when the truce talks began some weeks ago.

Senate Crime Group Finishes Work On Report

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30—The Senate Crime Committee today put the finishing touches on a final report which is expected to contain a proposal for a United Nations attack on the international dope racket.

Informed sources said the recommendation would be one of a number designed to stop the flow of heroin and other insidious drugs to the nation's youngsters.

The committee has heard testimony that much of the U.S. heroin supply comes from Italy, where the quantity produced is far beyond that needed for legitimate medical needs.

The senators are expected also to propose a system of circularizing marine and waterfront unions to warn them against members or would-be members who have records of narcotics offenses.

The committee, which expires at midnight Friday, is slated to release the 130-page summary of its more than one year of headline-making investigations on Friday or Saturday.

• • •

THIS "LAST will and testament" reportedly will urge the Senate Commerce Committee to take over the crime group's unfinished business.

It is also expected to deal at length with the activities of one-time Bootleg King Abner "Longie" Zwillman.

The committee's recent hearings on crime and politics in New York City and New Jersey were loaded with references to Zwillman's activities in many lines. He was revealed as a power in New Jersey politics and as a tremendously wealthy man with holdings in many legitimate business enterprises.

Committee Counsel Richard Moser has declared that Zwillman may turn out to be "more important than Frank Costello" and the report is expected to indicate committee concern over his activities—and his failure to come and testify.

Prisoners Say Coming Drive Big

Offensive May Start Next Month

TOKYO, Aug. 30—Five thousand Communist Caucasian troops with at least 70 tanks are headed toward the Western battlefront today in preparation for a possible all-out offensive if the armistice talks fail.

Captured Communist soldiers talk in terms of a big September offensive and many have told Allied interrogators that they believe the September offensive in Korea will be the start of World War Three.

The Caucasian unit, moving with tanks that have flown the white flag for protection, is only one part of a massive Communist buildup and is not the only Caucasian outfit spotted in North Korea. It is apart and distinct from the international "volunteer" unit of Czechs, Hungarians, Romanians and men from other Soviet satellites whose organization has been heralded by Communist radio propagandists.

• • •

INTERNATIONAL News Service was informed by a highly reliable source in the United Nations headquarters today that:

1. In addition to the Caucasian units on the move south in Korea, there are two Chinese armored divisions and one North Korean armored division close to the battlelines.

2. Modern anti-aircraft and artillery units have been in action in Korea for some time.

3. In recent days the Communists have used anti - aircraft rockets which have been seen to burst at altitudes as high as 25,000 feet, indicating some of the best of modern armament has been sent to Korea. During the entire period of the cease-fire talks at Kaesong the Communists have made great strides in deploying their forces forward toward the battlelines.

Most prisoners of war captured in the continuing skirmishes and small scale battles of the past weeks have expressed their belief that the big Communist offensive will begin next month and also have said they believe World War Three will begin with that offensive.

This deployment for battle by the Communists is believed the basic reason for Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's refusal to yield any of his good defensive terrain in Korea.

Vice-Admiral C. Turner Joy said as much when he told the Communist truce negotiators the Allied command could not relinquish such terrain in the face of the possibility of a renewed offensive by numerically superior ground forces.

• • •

AGAINST this Communist buildup Ridgway and his top field commander, Gen. James A. Van Fleet, have entrenched United Nations forces in the strongest positions they have ever held in Korea.

The entry of Caucasian units in battle positions is of highest political importance for it foreshadows a possible fundamental change in the nature of the Korean War, a change which may be of even greater meaning than was the entrance of Chinese troops last Autumn.

But materially the Chinese buildup is of more immediate tactical importance.

Lend-Lease Meet Is Canceled

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30—The U. S. today canceled a scheduled meeting with Russian negotiators over the long overdue Soviet $11 billion lend-lease account after receiving a new note from the USSR.

The meeting was called off without setting a new date. Officially, spokesmen would only say that the latest Russian note was "under study" and gave that reason for calling off today's conference.

Indian Views On Jap Peace Treaty Given

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30—Diplomats expect the Russian-promoted battle over the Japanese Peace Treaty will fail and that Japan will not enter into treaties with nations which do not sign the U. S.-Britain drafted document.

Prime Minister Nehru of India told his parliament today in New Delhi that his country does not intend tto offer the Japanese a treaty differing drastically from the one to be ratified at San Francisco.

And U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson ruled out the possibility that Japan may enter into more favorable treaties than the one to be signed at the peace conference beginning next Tuesday.

The Soviet - sponsored fight over the document stems basically from two big problems the non-Communist nations had to face regarding Japan.

The first problem facing the U. S. and other democratic nations was to establish a treaty providing the framework to encourage Japan to become a willing member of the non-Communist bloc.

The second problem, or a subdivision of the first one, is to keep Communism from control of the key far eastern nation.

Derailments Tie Up Crossings

HAMILTON, Aug. 30 — Four railroad crossings in the business section of Hamilton were tied up early today by train derailments.

Six cars on a Baltimore and Ohio eastbound freight jumped the track last night and blocked traffic at three intersections until early this morning. Railroad spokesmen said defective journals on the freight cars caused the wreck.

A few hours later, a switch engine jumped the track at the Pennsylvania Railroad crossing. A spread switch was blamed.

There were no injuries in either accident.

Oil Mediation Efforts Shelved

TEHRAN, Aug. 30—U.S. Ambassador Henry F. Grady momentarily shelved today efforts to mediate the Anglo-Iranian oil dispute because he said Iran "appears to be without a plan."

Grady made his statement after a 40-minute talk with Iranian Premier Mohammed Mossadegh which followed up last night's meeting with Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi.

The latter meeting was in response to the shah's summons and Grady said he found the shah "very disturbed" over lack of a settlement.

French Scourge Victims Placed In Straitjackets

FRANCE, Aug. 30 — Several victims of a scourge which has claimed four lives were placed in straitjackets today to keep them from committing suicide while in the grip of violent nightmares of the pre-historic world.

Children among the scores of persons hospitalized as the result of the scourge which has descended on Pont-Saint-Esprit, a town of 4,000, were strapped to their beds to prevent their injuring themselves.

Five of the scores of persons hospitalized were reported in grave condition and near death.

The affliction has been attributed tentatively to Ergot, a grain poisoning resulting from poisoned flour. Ergot is similar to a malady which was prevalent in the Middle Ages spreading panic as well as death.

Police, however, continued to investigate the possibility that the wheat delivered to one of the town's three bakers might have been poisoned deliberately in a maniacal murder plot.

Nearly 250 persons have been affected to some degree by the malady which is characterized by violent hallucinations.

5 Peach Pickers Die Of Poisoning

PORT CLINTON, Aug. 30—Five transient peach pickers died today in Port Clinton of poisoning believed caused by drinking paint solvent.

The five were tentatively identified from papers in their pockets as Leonard H. Holdrege of Chicago; Henry A. Kuehl of Toledo; David J. Pierson of Detroit; William Henry and a man known as "Fairport Fat."

The Ottawa County sheriff's office said the men had camped for the night in East Clinton, south of the New York Central Railroad tracks. All were believed past 50 years of age.

More Freedom Balloons Sent

MUNICH, Aug. 30 — Crusade for Freedom officials announced yesterday completion of a 16-hour launching of several thousand balloons directed at a new Iron Curtain target, Poland.

The nine-foot pillow-type plastic balloons bore the word "wolnosc," which is "freedom" in Polish, and carried 690,000 leaflet messages of encouragement to persons living under the Communist regime.

The "Winds of Freedom" balloons released by the organization near the German-Czech border were directed toward the Wroclaw and Warsaw areas.

Approximately 10,000 balloons were launched last week into Czechoslovakia, another Soviet satellite land.

Fish Fancier Asks Damages

COLUMBUS, Aug. 30 — The Columbus city council today has a letter from a Columbus fish fancier asking $370.50 in damages for 2,152 fish he claimed were killed by a DDT spray from a city truck.

Thomas Bell, owner of Trout's Aquarium, said previously drivers of the spray truck avoided the alley behind his aquarium.

In a similar case last year, city council paid a claim of $110.03 for fish killed by the spray.

Battle Bill Is Returned

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 — A Senate-passed bill giving President Truman power to halt military and economic aid to countries which ship war goods to the Soviet Bloc was returned to the House yesterday.

The Senate by a vote of 55 to 16 approved the measure, sponsored by Rep. Battle (D) Ala. The legislation is expected to be sent to conference to reconcile the views of the two houses.

Lima Withdraws As Purchaser

LIMA, Aug. 30—The Lima city council has withdrawn as a potential purchaser of the Lima City Lines, Inc., which plans to abandon its service next June 30.

Council notified the transportation company of its decision yesterday to give the company an opportunity to accept other offers.

Government Acts On Price Ceilings

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30—The government acted today to halt evasion of price ceilings on lamb and mutton and to roll back some prices in New York, the nation's biggest consumer of such meat.

Retail prices will not be affected immediately but a government spokesman said some butcher shop prices may be lwered within two weeks.

Today's regulation issued by the Office of Price Stabilization restricts all non - slaughtering lamb wholesalers to a two-cents-a-pound markup over costs.

It also forbids selling of cuts which were not offered before price controls went into effect earlier this year.

An OPS spokesman said the latter provision "should bring wholesale prices down, particularly in New York," which consumes 50 per cent of the U. S. lamb supply.

Cafeteria cooks for the coming school year are Mrs. Edgar Leichliter and Mrs. Arthur Whitten. Janitor is Albert Beathard. School bus drivers for the year will be Oscar Atwood, William Brown, Gordon Rihl and John Dearth.

First day of school for the Jackson youngsters will be ended at 11:30 a. m. after they have registered and made short visits to each of their scheduled classes.

The official opening will be preceded at 9 a. m. Monday by a meeting of the teachers, while the high school teachers will meet again following dismissal Tuesday morning.

A new feature of the classwork this year in Jackson will be the driver training program, for which 20 boys and girls have registered. More pupils are expected to register later.

Local Woman Hurt In Crash

Mrs. Robert Liston, 76, of 509 North Court street, was injured seriously Wednesday afternoon in an auto accident on Route 22 west of Circleville.

Mrs. Liston was a passenger in an auto driven by Mrs. Charles Rader, 35, of Bloomington, Ill., which was travelling west on Route 22.

Deputy Walter Richards said the mishap happened at about 2 p. m. Wednesday about one mile west of the Routes 104-22 crossing when Mrs. Rader lost control of her auto after passing a wrecker.

The Rader auto swerved into the ditch to the north of the highway and overturned. The auto was demolished.

Mrs. Liston was rushed into Berger hospital for emergency treatment for fractured ribs and a possible brain concussion. Her condition Thursday was reported good.

Lend-Lease Meet Is Canceled

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30—The U. S. today canceled a scheduled meeting with Russian negotiators over the long overdue Soviet $11 billion lend-lease account after receiving a new note from the USSR.

The meeting was called off without setting a new date. Officially, spokesmen would only say that the latest Russian note was "under study" and gave that reason for calling off today's conference.

Traffic Offender Is Fined Here

Mrs. Grace Clevenger, 43, of Columbus, was fined a total of $25 and costs Wednesday in the court of Mayor Thurman I. Miller for two traffic violations.

The Columbus woman was fined $15 and costs for driving without a license and $10 and costs for crossing a yellow line. She was arrested by State Highway Patrolman J. H. Ray.

Indian Views On Jap Peace Treaty Given

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30—Diplomats expect the Russian-promoted battle over the Japanese Peace Treaty will fail and that Japan will not enter into treaties with nations which do not sign the U. S.-Britain drafted document.

Prime Minister Nehru of India told his parliament today in New Delhi that his country does not intend tto offer the Japanese a treaty differing drastically from the one to be ratified at San Francisco.

And U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson ruled out the possibility that Japan may enter into more favorable treaties than the one to be signed at the peace conference beginning next Tuesday.

The Soviet - sponsored fight over the document stems basically from two big problems the non-Communist nations had to face regarding Japan.

The first problem facing the U. S. and other democratic nations was to establish a treaty providing the framework to encourage Japan to become a willing member of the non-Communist bloc.

The second problem, or a subdivision of the first one, is to keep Communism from control of the key far eastern nation.

Winner of the contest goes to Asbury Park, N. J., Sept. 9 where she will compete for more than $7,500 in prizes, a tour of the nation and that crown as "Mrs. America."

The entrants are judged on a 50-50 basis of beauty and homemaking skill.

Derailments Tie Up Crossings

HAMILTON, Aug. 30 — Four railroad crossings in the business section of Hamilton were tied up early today by train derailments.

Six cars on a Baltimore and Ohio eastbound freight jumped the track last night and blocked traffic at three intersections until early this morning. Railroad spokesmen said defective journals on the freight cars caused the wreck.

A few hours later, a switch engine jumped the track at the Pennsylvania Railroad crossing. A spread switch was blamed.

There were no injuries in either accident.

Oil Mediation Efforts Shelved

TEHRAN, Aug. 30—U.S. Ambassador Henry F. Grady momentarily shelved today efforts to mediate the Anglo-Iranian oil dispute because he said Iran "appears to be without a plan."

Grady made his statement after a 40-minute talk with Iranian Premier Mohammed Mossadegh which followed up last night's meeting with Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi.

The latter meeting was in response to the shah's summons and Grady said he found the shah "very disturbed" over lack of a settlement.

French Scourge Victims Placed In Straitjackets

FRANCE, Aug. 30 — Several victims of a scourge which has claimed four lives were placed in straitjackets today to keep them from committing suicide while in the grip of violent nightmares of the pre-historic world.

Children among the scores of persons hospitalized as the result of the scourge which has descended on Pont-Saint-Esprit, a town of 4,000, were strapped to their beds to prevent their injuring themselves.

Five of the scores of persons hospitalized were reported in grave condition and near death.

The affliction has been attributed tentatively to Ergot, a grain poisoning resulting from poisoned flour. Ergot is similar to a malady which was prevalent in the Middle Ages spreading panic as well as death.

Police, however, continued to investigate the possibility that the wheat delivered to one of the town's three bakers might have been poisoned deliberately in a maniacal murder plot.

Nearly 250 persons have been affected to some degree by the malady which is characterized by violent hallucinations.

5 Peach Pickers Die Of Poisoning

PORT CLINTON, Aug. 30—Five transient peach pickers died today in Port Clinton of poisoning believed caused by drinking paint solvent.

The five were tentatively identified from papers in their pockets as Leonard H. Holdrege of Chicago; Henry A. Kuehl of Toledo; David J. Pierson of Detroit; William Henry and a man known as "Fairport Fat."

The Ottawa County sheriff's office said the men had camped for the night in East Clinton, south of the New York Central Railroad tracks. All were believed past 50 years of age.

Lawn Sprinkling Ban Invoked

CLEVELAND, Aug. 30—Several suburbs have joined greater Cleveland in invoking bans on lawn sprinkling in an effort to ease the current water shortage.

Sprinkling bans are in force in Lakewood, Bay Village, Euclid, Parma, Maple Heights, South Euclid, Mayfield Heights, Warrensville, Westlake, and Willowick.

More Freedom Balloons Sent

MUNICH, Aug. 30 — Crusade for Freedom officials announced yesterday completion of a 16-hour launching of several thousand balloons directed at a new Iron Curtain target, Poland.

The nine-foot pillow-type plastic balloons bore the word "wolnosc," which is "freedom" in Polish, and carried 690,000 leaflet messages of encouragement to persons living under the Communist regime.

The "Winds of Freedom" balloons released by the organization near the German-Czech border were directed toward the Wroclaw and Warsaw areas.

Approximately 10,000 balloons were launched last week into Czechoslovakia, another Soviet satellite land.

Fish Fancier Asks Damages

COLUMBUS, Aug. 30 — The Columbus city council today has a letter from a Columbus fish fancier asking $370.50 in damages for 2,152 fish he claimed were killed by a DDT spray from a city truck.

Thomas Bell, owner of Trout's Aquarium, said previously drivers of the spray truck avoided the alley behind his aquarium.

In a similar case last year, city council paid a claim of $110.03 for fish killed by the spray.

Battle Bill Is Returned

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 — A Senate-passed bill giving President Truman power to halt military and economic aid to countries which ship war goods to the Soviet Bloc was returned to the House yesterday.

The Senate by a vote of 55 to 16 approved the measure, sponsored by Rep. Battle (D) Ala. The legislation is expected to be sent to conference to reconcile the views of the two houses.

Lima Withdraws As Purchaser

LIMA, Aug. 30—The Lima city council has withdrawn as a potential purchaser of the Lima City Lines, Inc., which plans to abandon its service next June 30.

Council notified the transportation company of its decision yesterday to give the company an opportunity to accept other offers.

Government Acts On Price Ceilings

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30—The government acted today to halt evasion of price ceilings on lamb and mutton and to roll back some prices in New York, the nation's biggest consumer of such meat.

Retail prices will not be affected immediately but a government spokesman said some butcher shop prices may be lwered within two weeks.

Today's regulation issued by the Office of Price Stabilization restricts all non - slaughtering lamb wholesalers to a two-cents-a-pound markup over costs.

It also forbids selling of cuts which were not offered before price controls went into effect earlier this year.

An OPS spokesman said the latter provision "should bring wholesale prices down, particularly in New York," which consumes 50 per cent of the U. S. lamb supply.

Court Approves Fund Transfer

Madison Township board of trustees has received approval from Pickaway County common pleas court to complete a transfer of funds from its general revenue fund.

The court has approved transfer of $2,000 from the township's general revenue fund into its depleted road and bridge fund.

Revised Jap Peace Pact To Be Asked By Gromyko

FLUSHING MEADOW, N. Y., Aug. 30—Sources in touch with the Russian UN delegation indicate that Andrei Gromyko will make next Wednesday a major Kremlin-drafted address urging a revised Japanese Peace Treaty.

The Soviet deputy foreign minister will lay down at the San Francisco sessions a series of basic counter-proposals calculated to appeal to millions in Asiatic lands.

At the same time, he will precipitate a showdown with the United States on the Allied agreement to restrict the conference program to four days of speeches, climaxed by the signing of the treaty.

Gromyko's initial aim is to force the transformation of the conference into a negotiating session in which Russian counter-proposals fundamentally altering the nature of the treaty would play a leading role.

* * *

WESTERN diplomats at Flushing Meadow suspect that in the briefcase Gromyko carried on his arrival by ship yesterday in New York may be:

1. A joint Russian-Communist Chinese offer of a non-aggression pact to Asiatic lands aimed at undermining U. S. influence.

2. An affiliated proposal to Japan for an economic pact opening Manchuria to Japanese imports and exports to lure that nation away from the network of U. S. security pacts in the Pacific.

3. A renewed Kremlin offer for settling all Far East problems in a five-power conference attended on a basis of equality by Russia, Britain, the United States, France and Communist China.

4. A plan to offset expected defeat of the Soviet proposals by convoking an "Asia for the Asiatics" conference in Peiping to which Gromyko and China's Mao Tse-tung would invite all Asiatic lands.

Gromyko declined extensive comment on his arrival yesterday but at the UN those close to Iron Curtain sources hinted strongly that the Kaesong ceasefire talks are linked to developments at the forth-coming treaty conference.

Firemen Warn Of Gas Fumes

CLEVELAND, Aug. 30—Cleveland residents have been warned by firement to put water in their sewer traps to prevent leaking gas fumes from entering their homes.

Firemen said the gas is escaping from an abandoned gas well located at W. 112th street and Lake avenue. They added that gas fumes have been detected in several storm sewers in the area.

Subversive Doings Revealed

PATERSON, N. J., Aug. 30—Paterson's Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War charged today there are some subversive doings going on in the north country.

Benjamin F. Hook, chaplain of the Hugh C. Irish Camp, said the flying of small Confederate flags from automobile radio antennae and radiator caps "could very well lead to dissension among the people of our nation."

And that, said Hook, is a form of subversive action.

Wilson Asks Expansion Of Scientific Training

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 — Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson has appealed to the nation's educators, businessmen and government officials to expand the training of scientific and technical experts.

Wilson declared that the country is confronted "with a serious shortage" of these specialists. He warned that the success of the defense program will depend on how fast training can be stepped up.

The mobilization director proposed a three - point program calling for full use of available experts by the government, industry and educational institutions, persuasion of more people to take the training, and on-the-job training programs wherever possible.

Wilson asserted: "The supply of scientific and engineering graduates in 1951 is less than half that needed to fully man our economic and defense programs.

* * *

"PRESENT indications are that the number of scientifically trained graduates will steadily decrease at least until 1954 while the demands of essential civilian and defense programs, in the same period, will continue to increase."

In another development, the Labor Department said the Korean War "brought a sharp increase in demand for (scientifically-trained) personnel ending the threat of job competition among the record number of recent graduates."

The department made the statement in a new occupational handbook which summarizes the outlook for jobs in the professions and the trades for the next few years.

It said that medicine, dentistry, nursing and other health service occupations offer "excellent opportunities" in addition to social work, library work, accountancy and psychology.

The department added that law, newspaper reporting, radio announcing and photography "will remain rather difficult to enter" but most crafts appear to have a rather good outlook.

Some of the building trades such as stone-masonry, cement finishing, plastering, painting and paperhanging, the book said, will be affected to the extent that homebuilding is reduced by government controls.

Capehart Claims Truman Wants 'Blank Check'

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30—Sen. Capehart (R) Ind., said yesterday that President Truman will "sabotage" the new economic controls law unless Congress gives him a "blank check" to administer the act.

Capehart said in a Senate speech prepared for delivery that Mr. Truman misrepresented facts and "hit below the belt" when he asked Congress to change the law.

The senator, sponsor of one controversial provision, declared bitterly:

"I am thoroughly convinced that the President will sabotage the price and wage control features of the Defense Production Act, unless he can write his own rules and regulations and impose his own will upon all America."

Capehart's blast marked the opening of a new congressional wrangle over controls and coincided with Price Chief DiSalle's expressed hope that Congress will eliminate three controversial amendments from the law.

HIGH RATE OF LITERACY

Jap Treaty Meet Seen As Deciding Asian Future

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30—The future not only of Japan but the vast and chaotic Asiatic area may be decided at the Japanese Peace Treaty Conference opening next Tuesday in San Francisco.

The signing of the treaty by some 50 nations once united in the war against Japan at first promised to be a show - case affair arranged by the United States.

Russia changed this by suddenly deciding to attend. India's boycott of the affair has given Russia even more fuel with which to try to obstruct the conference. A lively East-West battle is expected.

Behind the propaganda battle which is certain to result in the Golden Gate City lies this most significant factor—Japan itself.

No larger than California, Japan is a nation of some 82 million hard-working people with a high rate of literacy.

• • •

JAPAN ALONE in Asia possesses the tools of an industrial civilization—the know - how of mass production, the mills, plants, ship yards and great numbers of skilled workers.

It took the combined might of the Allies to stop Japan in World War II. But that nation first had conquered a land mass and peoples both measured in units of millions.

Today Japan's plants still are half-destroyed. But, restored economically and industrially she could again — and quickly—become the largest single power in Asia.

Russia is well aware of this. So are the Western Powers.

The Korean War has made it very clear how much of a key position Japan occupies as a bastion in Pacific defenses of the United States and other anti-Communist lands.

When the peace treaty is put into effect, American occupation troops will be succeeded by agreed-upon defense forces allied in a mutual security arrangement.

India has refused to sign the treaty because of the provision which will allow the U. S. to keep bases on Okinawa and other islands.

Russia also has bitterly denounced not only that part of the treaty but the very manner in which the Anglo-American draft was reached—by talks with all the nations at war with Japan instead of a Russian-demanded Big Five conference where Moscow could have wielded the veto.

• • •

JAPAN'S resurgence as a sovereign nation will be accompanied by the right to have its own defense by creating armed forces. The core of a new Japanese Army possibly already exists in the American - trained National Police Reserve.

In the opinion of many Western officials, what happens to Japan will overshadow the Korean conflict and be more meaningful than what happens in Red-ruled China.

A State Department spokesman once said that the geopoliticians are wrong when they maintain that the country controlling China also controls Asia.

He said the country that thinks it controls China has only a headache and that Japan is the key to Asia.

Motorists Given Safety Formula

BOSTON, Aug. 30—A Boston traffic expert offered motorists a specific formula to help them come safely through the Labor Day weekend, during which another heavy highway death toll is expected.

The formula given by Philip C. Thibodeau, general manager of the Automobile Legal Association, is simply this: start out 17 minutes earlier than seems necessary, for every 100 miles to be covered.

Most motorists, said Thibodeau, figure three hours for every 100 miles on long trips. A 10 per cent reduction in open road speed from 45 miles an hour to 40, he said, would add 17 minutes driving time for each 100 miles—"and reduce the possibility of you winding up in a hospital."

Security Act Will Hike Aid

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee has estimated that the new Mutual Security Act will hike the total of American aid to foreign nations since the war to more than $45 billion.

This would consist of $31,229,207,000 in gross foreign aid already expended; $7,019,000,000 in funds previously appropriated which have not been expended and the proposed $7,535,000,000 for the 1952 military and economic program.

Of the $31 billion already spent, $20,464,456,000 was in grants and $10,764,751,000 in the form of loans.

HIGH RATE OF LITERACY

Jap Treaty Meet Seen As Deciding Asian Future

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30—The future not only of Japan but the vast and chaotic Asiatic area may be decided at the Japanese Peace Treaty Conference opening next Tuesday in San Francisco.

The signing of the treaty by some 50 nations once united in the war against Japan at first promised to be a show - case affair arranged by the United States.

Russia changed this by suddenly deciding to attend. India's boycott of the affair has given Russia even more fuel with which to try to obstruct the conference. A lively East-West battle is expected.

Behind the propaganda battle which is certain to result in the Golden Gate City lies this most significant factor—Japan itself.

No larger than California, Japan is a nation of some 82 million hard-working people with a high rate of literacy.

• • •

JAPAN ALONE in Asia possesses the tools of an industrial civilization—the know - how of mass production, the mills, plants, ship yards and great numbers of skilled workers.

It took the combined might of the Allies to stop Japan in World War II. But that nation first had conquered a land mass and peoples both measured in units of millions.

Today Japan's plants still are half-destroyed. But, restored economically and industrially she could again — and quickly—become the largest single power in Asia.

Russia is well aware of this. So are the Western Powers.

The Korean War has made it very clear how much of a key position Japan occupies as a bastion in Pacific defenses of the United States and other anti-Communist lands.

When the peace treaty is put into effect, American occupation troops will be succeeded by agreed-upon defense forces allied in a mutual security arrangement.

India has refused to sign the treaty because of the provision which will allow the U. S. to keep bases on Okinawa and other islands.

Russia also has bitterly denounced not only that part of the treaty but the very manner in which the Anglo-American draft was reached—by talks with all the nations at war with Japan instead of a Russian-demanded Big Five conference where Moscow could have wielded the veto.

• • •

JAPAN'S resurgence as a sovereign nation will be accompanied by the right to have its own defense by creating armed forces. The core of a new Japanese Army possibly already exists in the American - trained National Police Reserve.

In the opinion of many Western officials, what happens to Japan will overshadow the Korean conflict and be more meaningful than what happens in Red-ruled China.

A State Department spokesman once said that the geopoliticians are wrong when they maintain that the country controlling China also controls Asia.

He said the country that thinks it controls China has only a headache and that Japan is the key to Asia.

CRISIS IN AUSTRALIA

AUSTRALIA'S economy is based almost entirely upon a single product—wool. Raw wool is the country's principal export and any disaster to wool growers is immediately felt by the government.

The shearing season is now in progress, and prevailing prices will have a decided effect upon the economy. The danger lies in competition provided by synthetic fibers as substitutes for wool in the manufacture of textiles. Many of these are held to be superior to wool in some respects.

With wool prices at record levels Australia was enjoying a period of prosperity which enabled it to meet the costs of domestic spending programs which already had produced serious inflation.

But the price of wool has been dropping steadily for months, after having reached an all-time peak last year, and to meet the decline in prices the British commonwealth government following the example of the United States, established a price-support program. Where to get the money to support prices has now become a problem.

The government of Prime Minister Menzies is threatened because the country's principal product was priced out of the market through man's cleverness at substitution. "All wool and a yard wide" is no longer regarded as essential to quality in a world which has become synthetic in more ways than one.

VETOING ABUNDANCE

WASHINGTON informs the public the cost of food is going up. The housewife corroborates that finding on food buying days. Yet the farm price commodity index fell from 215 last February to 180 in June and since then has leveled off.

In a land of competition prices of finished products would not rise in the face of a raw materials price slump, other things being equal. Yet this is happening, and the causes are not difficult to find. They are rising taxes and rising wages in the finished product field.

Inflation and the high cost of government are denying the consumer his natural right of a lower cost of living at a time when quotations for raw materials have dropped.

The farm commodities index itself is largely worthless as the government will buy most of the crops going into food and fabrics at a price higher than prevailing on the open market. It is doubtful whether there are many real open markets left in America because of government programs and controls.

This is something everyone from the low income man who works with his hands to the high salaried man ought to be thinking about. It is a serious development when abundance no longer results in a reduction in the cost of living.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

In 1947, Dr. Henry P. Van Dusen, president of faculty of the Union Theological Seminary, could write in his book, "World Christianity":

"This 'rediscovery of the church' is a by-product of the Second World War. It is important to recognize that there has been no direct causal connection. Obviously, the churches did not cause the war; they had little direct effect upon its outcome. In the main, the war has wrought little noteworthy change in the life or strength of the Christian churches. . ."

In 1951, this is no longer true in many parts of the world. In this same book, Dr. Van Dusen writes of missionary work in such countries as China where during the past two years Christianity has been stomped beneath the hooves of anti-Christian mobs.

We need, I am sure, to think of the battle against the religions of God in all the countries that are controlled from the Kremlin not in terms of Jews or Roman Catholics or Protestants, but as people of the book, sons of God in an identical civilization. While maintaining our differences, we need to recognize that we are faced by the same enemy who hates us all. Perhaps that hatred will give us the wisdom to unite, not in dogma and ritual, but in the spirit of God.

This is becoming increasingly important as the enemy fights with every weapon, particularly by using the power of the state to corrupt young children. He rears them in schools where they are separated from all the treasures of human history and thought. They grow believing only what they are permitted to hear and see and they are blind to all the great forces that rescued man from slavery and brought him within the scope of social justice.

The real danger is not the present adult generation, for they have memories of church and synagogue, the joy of prayer, the sense of mercy, the richness of true humility in the presence of God. They recall the beauty of Easter, the cleansing sense of Passover, the joy of Christmas, the piety of Yom Kippur.

It is the young in the Marxist countries who will never even have heard of the relationship of man to God, who will never have been in a house of worship, who will never have known of a religion of love.

They carry ikons of Stalin and Mao and such creatures. They march behind these ikons. These are their gods.

We saw the photographs of the youth festival in East Germany. There were the ikons, huge photographs of the masters of men, uninspired, monstrous photographs! These ikons are like the idols one sees in the temples of profane religions, vulgar, ugly idols.

In this century the young minds of boys and girls can be corrupted into receiving these blown-up photographs as the symbols of, shall we say, power, or is it, fear!

These young people will present to the next generations sick minds because their physical nature will never have been softened by the leavening, pacifying influence of religion, of God's love. They will know only that struggle begets struggle, that power comes to him who takes it, that man is but a creature like all else in nature, an all-purpose mammal that can talk.

For those who believe in God, this is a responsibility that all must face in this age. Here in our country we quarrel among ourselves over small matters while the enemy destroys our world.

CHAPTER FORTY

TONTO moved slowly, practically feeling his way. As he neared Avrillo's street, he moved more cautiously. At last he reached the corner and carefully peered around. The Golden was completely silent and dark but the canopied porch held shadows where a man might hide and wait.

His eyes probed at the shadows, discerned the bulk of the windows, the door, the dark and empty bench. He heard Tex just behind him and the young puncher pressed close. Tonto's back-stretched hand checked Tex, and he continued to search the porch shadows. Then his eyes moved to the far corner, probed across the street.

"See him?" Tex whispered.

"The place is closed."

"Weekday night," Tex said. "None of the spreads have come into town. Ain't enough business to keep 'em open late."

"Where does Overby live?"

"He's got a shack over on the next street. I know the place."

"I reckon we'd better pay him a visit," Tonto said grimly.

He moved out into the street and his eyes searched every building. Overby need not necessarily wait at the Golden for his chance at Tonto. Almost any spot would offer him a hiding place, a good shot at anyone coming along the street, and a chance to get away. Tonto now saw that there was a light in the sheriff's office, and Tex saw it at almost the same instant.

"Hey, Tonto. How about the lawman?"

"Later," Tonto said over his shoulder.

"But he's the law."

"So am I." Tonto moved on across the street, leaving Tex to figure that one out as best he could. Tonto ghosted down the walk and waited for Tex at the corner.

"Take the lead. When you see Overby's house, let me know."

Tex moved more boldly down the street to the next corner. Avrillo seemed unusually quiet, as though waiting and watching. Tex turned the corner and walked for several yards and then halted. Tonto drifted up.

"Over there," Tex pointed. "That little house beneath the trees."

Tonto nodded and moved ahead of Tex into the street. There was no fence before Overby's house, the doors and windows were closed. Tonto moved to the walk, hand close to the gun butt on his right leg. He expected anything and was quite prepared for it. Tex waited at the edge of the yard, hidden in the tree shadows.

There was no movement, no alarm. Tonto reached the door, paused and looked around. He knocked, stepped back. In a moment he knocked again, more loudly. Tex drifted in from the walk.

"He ain't there?"

"I'm not so sure," Tonto answered grimly. He palmed the Colt from the holster. "I'd better find out."

He gripped the door knob, turned it, placed his shoulder against the panel. It swung open and Tonto moved to one side of the frame. The door squeaked back on its hinges, opening on a blank wall of darkness.

Tonto eased around the door frame, gun leveled, hammer dogged back. He stepped into the room and to one side in a single flowing movement that framed him against the night for only a fraction of a second. He held his breath, listening.

There was something in the silence that told him that no living thing was here. He waited, ears and eyes strained. Then his muscle slowly eased.

"Come in, Tex. Close the door."

Tex moved as silently as a ghost. The door closed. Tonto moved to the dull white blur of a window, pulled down the blind. He felt his way toward the other window, struck a chair that fell over with a loud crash. Instantly Tonto froze. There was no movement within the house.

He was more certain than ever that Bart Overby was not here, but he had to make sure. Tonto lit the lamp. Tex remained flattened against the wall, gun glinting in his hand. He slowly pushed himself away.

"You take more chances than the law allows. We ought to be dead by now."

"We're searching the house," Tonto said. It did not take long. There was only a cubbyhole of a kitchen and a bedroom, equally as small, to the rear of the house. A single glance at the bed told Tonto it had not been used.

"Hasn't been here all night," Tonto said. "Sort of clinches my idea."

"Sure," Tex nodded and looked around. "But where is he?"

"We'll find him by morning," Tonto promised. He returned to the front room, placed the lamp on the table and blew it out. He groped to the door and opened it, leaving the house much more boldly than when he had entered.

Once more Tex dropped back. Tonto walked in long, purposeful strides to the main street. He paused there, looking up and down the silent, dark road. He caught the glimmer of light in the sheriff's office and, in sudden determination, walked over.

"That hurdy-gurdy man was playing OUR song—I FIXED HIM!"

Bennett Cerf's

Try, Stop Me

Mr. John McNulty, who specializes in discovering — and writing about — slightly zany characters in Third Avenue saloons and points adjacent, is himself a somewhat erratic bettor when the horses are running. One day he was observed leaving the press box at Churchill Downs just after a long shot had come in to pay $76 for every $2 ticket. By way of being pleasant, Joe Palmer said, "I hope you had that one." Mr. McNulty answered indignantly, "At 37 to 1? Do you think I'm crazy?"

Vance Randolph says the hills are so steep in the Ozarks that one farmer who had planted potatoes in his almost-perpendicular patch boasted, "No need to dig 'em up when they ripen. We just cut off the end of the row and let 'em fall out." Another Ozark resident declared his county was so rough that when a cyclone went through it had to be provided with an escort of State Police. "Thar's a hill at the end of my property," he concluded, "so steep you couldn't get over it if you was ridin' a turpentined wildcat!"

ONE MAN'S OPINION

The Chinese Nationalist representative accused of failing to account for $19,440,000 is working up his defense—he will claim he was just learning American customs.

I hear he will say "I have been living in Washington for eight years and I am a victim of environment."

But it just goes to show the difference between the Chinese and us—shucks, we wouldn't think of getting excited at anything under a $20,000,000 deal.

My barber wonders if the Chinese procedure in these cases is any different from ours. He says as he understands it our procedure is—accusation, defense on the ground that the accused is being smeared, Senate investigation, finding of innocent by the majority, finding of guilt by the minority, file and forget.

Next case please—and move the camera a little to the right, that's my good profile.

And I still think we're getting a more exciting series of administrations than Coolidge ever gave us.

My New York

By MEL HEIMER

Phil Regan

NEW YORK—The fabulous Monday of Phil Regan may be used as the latest and most vivid example of exactly what it means to live in these, our United States.

It has been 45 years since the dark-haired Mr. Regan blossomed as the first of five children to be born to an Irish immigrant couple in a Booklyn coldwater flat.

In the interim, he has been a cop (and a good one; when he was still a student policeman he walked into a pool parlor and arrested a murderer), a singer, a movie actor, a successful dabbler in oil—and a grandfather. If Marlene Dietrich is the most glamorous grandparent in the world, Phil runs her a close second.

These days Regan keeps himself busy by running the Armed Forces Show, a television program aired each Sunday. According to his press agent, he does the show chiefly out of patriotism. He has acquired, evidently, all the money in the world—after, of course, Bing Crosby took his share.

Along with all this loot, Phil has acquired more acquaintances than Ninon de Lenclos—and none of them holds less of an office apparently, than senator or Speaker of the House. President Truman has described him on occasion as his favorite singer, and there was a big rumor at one time that Regan was going to be named ambassador to Ireland. His credentials, while not visible on the surface, at least were as strong as those of Pearl Mesta. He didn't get the job, though.

EACH WEEK THE REGAN SHOW is broadcast from a different Army camp or Navy base, and recently the site was Norfolk, Va. Secretary of the Navy Dan A. Kimball was Regan's guest, and he retaliated by giving Phil a Navy citation for his work for the armed forces.

Kimball was such a hit on the show that Regan decided to use more brass—and he used brass to get the brass. On a Monday morning, he took a plane to Washington. At the Pentagon, he made a beeline for the office of Secretary of Defense George C. Marshall. He had no appointment with the Virginia gentleman.

"I doubt very much," Marshall's secretary said rather frostily, "that you can see Mr. Marshall today. He has so many important meetings, and Admiral Sherman just has died, and—"

"Just tell him Phil Regan is outside," the man with the brass said. When Regan speaks, evidently, some men listen. The secretary went inside—and was out in a minute. "He says to send you right in," he said. Mr. Regan sailed in triumphantly, had a heart-to-heart talk with Marshall, and emerged after a while to proceed about his business.

This was the business: In quick succession, and without appointments, Regan saw Secretary of the Army Frank Pace, Marine Commandant Gen. Clifton Cates, Director of Defense Mobilization Charles E. Wilson, Army Chief of Staff Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff Gen. Omar Bradley, and his old friend, Secretary Kimball.

* * *

IF YOU WANT TO WONDER why all these big wheels, vitally concerned with one of the world's great crises, took time out of their working day to sit around and talk with a singer who wouldn't know a strategic retreat from a von Clausewitz maneuver, you are free to do so—and you have a good point there. It does seem they would have something better to do.

However, the point being stressed here is that all the brass was available. I don't think it could happen anywhere but in this strange and remarkable land. Can you, for instance, imagine an English music hall entertainer pounding on the door of No. 10 Downing street and commanding Clement Attlee to be brought out to see him—or a Russian vaudeville juggler barging into the Kremlin for a few minutes' chat with holy Joe?

For Mr. Regan, it must be said that he appreciated the dimensions of the VIPs he had barged in on. "Were you impressed, Phil?" somebody asked him, that evening. "I started being impressed when I met my first precinct sergeant," the ex-cop replied with becoming modesty.

I wouldn't suggest that Mr. Regan's procedure be followed by everyone who wants to see the high brass. Nervy Irishmen, however, are free to try. They've had a fine example.

CRISIS IN AUSTRALIA

AUSTRALIA'S economy is based almost entirely upon a single product—wool. Raw wool is the country's principal export and any disaster to wool growers is immediately felt by the government.

The shearing season is now in progress, and prevailing prices will have a decided effect upon the economy. The danger lies in competition provided by synthetic fibers as substitutes for wool in the manufacture of textiles. Many of these are held to be superior to wool in some respects.

With wool prices at record levels Australia was enjoying a period of prosperity which enabled it to meet the costs of domestic spending programs which already had produced serious inflation.

But the price of wool has been dropping steadily for months, after having reached an all-time peak last year, and to meet the decline in prices the British commonwealth government following the example of the United States, established a price-support program. Where to get the money to support prices has now become a problem.

The government of Prime Minister Menzies is threatened because the country's principal product was priced out of the market through man's cleverness at substitution. "All wool and a yard wide" is no longer regarded as essential to quality in a world which has become synthetic in more ways than one.

VETOING ABUNDANCE

WASHINGTON informs the public the cost of food is going up. The housewife corroborates that finding on food buying days. Yet the farm price commodity index fell from 215 last February to 180 in June and since then has leveled off.

In a land of competition prices of finished products would not rise in the face of a raw materials price slump, other things being equal. Yet this is happening, and the causes are not difficult to find. They are rising taxes and rising wages in the finished product field.

Inflation and the high cost of government are denying the consumer his natural right of a lower cost of living at a time when quotations for raw materials have dropped.

The farm commodities index itself is largely worthless as the government will buy most of the crops going into food and fabrics at a price higher than prevailing on the open market. It is doubtful whether there are many real open markets left in America because of government programs and controls.

This is something everyone from the low income man who works with his hands to the high salaried man ought to be thinking about. It is a serious development when abundance no longer results in a reduction in the cost of living.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

In 1947, Dr. Henry P. Van Dusen, president of faculty of the Union Theological Seminary, could write in his book, "World Christianity":

"This 'rediscovery of the church' is a by-product of the Second World War. It is important to recognize that there has been no direct causal connection. Obviously, the churches did not cause the war; they had little direct effect upon its outcome. In the main, the war has wrought little noteworthy change in the life or strength of the Christian churches. . ."

In 1951, this is no longer true in many parts of the world. In this same book, Dr. Van Dusen writes of missionary work in such countries as China where during the past two years Christianity has been stomped beneath the hooves of anti-Christian mobs.

We need, I am sure, to think of the battle against the religions of God in all the countries that are controlled from the Kremlin not in terms of Jews or Roman Catholics or Protestants, but as people of the book, sons of God in an identical civilization. While maintaining our differences, we need to recognize that we are faced by the same enemy who hates us all. Perhaps that hatred will give us the wisdom to unite, not in dogma and ritual, but in the spirit of God.

This is becoming increasingly important as the enemy fights with every weapon, particularly by using the power of the state to corrupt young children. He rears them in schools where they are separated from all the treasures of human history and thought. They grow believing only what they are permitted to hear and see and they are blind to all the great forces that rescued man from slavery and brought him within the scope of social justice.

The real danger is not the present adult generation, for they have memories of church and synagogue, the joy of prayer, the sense of mercy, the richness of true humility in the presence of God. They recall the beauty of Easter, the cleansing sense of Passover, the joy of Christmas, the piety of Yom Kippur.

It is the young in the Marxist countries who will never even have heard of the relationship of man to God, who will never have been in a house of worship, who will never have known of a religion of love.

They carry ikons of Stalin and Mao and such creatures. They march behind these ikons. These are their gods.

We saw the photographs of the youth festival in East Germany. There were the ikons, huge photographs of the masters of men, uninspired, monstrous photographs! These ikons are like the idols one sees in the temples of profane religions, vulgar, ugly idols.

In this century the young minds of boys and girls can be corrupted into receiving these blown-up photographs as the symbols of, shall we say, power, or is it, fear!

These young people will present to the next generations sick minds because their physical nature will never have been softened by the leavening, pacifying influence of religion, of God's love. They will know only that struggle begets struggle, that power comes to him who takes it, that man is but a creature like all else in nature, an all-purpose mammal that can talk.

For those who believe in God, this is a responsibility that all must face in this age. Here in our country we quarrel among ourselves over small matters while the enemy destroys our world.

CHAPTER FORTY

TONTO moved slowly, practically feeling his way. As he neared Avrillo's street, he moved more cautiously. At last he reached the corner and carefully peered around. The Golden was completely silent and dark but the canopied porch held shadows where a man might hide and wait.

His eyes probed at the shadows, discerned the bulk of the windows, the door, the dark and empty bench. He heard Tex just behind him and the young puncher pressed close. Tonto's back-stretched hand checked Tex, and he continued to search the porch shadows. Then his eyes moved to the far corner, probed across the street.

"See him?" Tex whispered.

"The place is closed."

"Weekday night," Tex said. "None of the spreads have come into town. Ain't enough business to keep 'em open late."

"Where does Overby live?"

"He's got a shack over on the next street. I know the place."

"I reckon we'd better pay him a visit," Tonto said grimly.

He moved out into the street and his eyes searched every building. Overby need not necessarily wait at the Golden for his chance at Tonto. Almost any spot would offer him a hiding place, a good shot at anyone coming along the street, and a chance to get away. Tonto now saw that there was a light in the sheriff's office, and Tex saw it at almost the same instant.

"Hey, Tonto. How about the lawman?"

"Later," Tonto said over his shoulder.

"But he's the law."

"So am I." Tonto moved on across the street, leaving Tex to figure that one out as best he could. Tonto ghosted down the walk and waited for Tex at the corner.

"Take the lead. When you see Overby's house, let me know."

Tex moved more boldly down the street to the next corner. Avrillo seemed unusually quiet, as though waiting and watching. Tex turned the corner and walked for several yards and then halted. Tonto drifted up.

"Over there," Tex pointed. "That little house beneath the trees."

Tonto nodded and moved ahead of Tex into the street. There was no fence before Overby's house, the doors and windows were closed. Tonto moved to the walk, hand close to the gun butt on his right leg. He expected anything and was quite prepared for it. Tex waited at the edge of the yard, hidden in the tree shadows.

There was no movement, no alarm. Tonto reached the door, paused and looked around. He knocked, stepped back. In a moment he knocked again, more loudly. Tex drifted in from the walk.

"He ain't there?"

"I'm not so sure," Tonto answered grimly. He palmed the Colt from the holster. "I'd better find out."

He gripped the door knob, turned it, placed his shoulder against the panel. It swung open and Tonto moved to one side of the frame. The door squeaked back on its hinges, opening on a blank wall of darkness.

Tonto eased around the door frame, gun leveled, hammer dogged back. He stepped into the room and to one side in a single flowing movement that framed him against the night for only a fraction of a second. He held his breath, listening.

There was something in the silence that told him that no living thing was here. He waited, ears and eyes strained. Then his muscle slowly eased.

"Come in, Tex. Close the door."

Tex moved as silently as a ghost. The door closed. Tonto moved to the dull white blur of a window, pulled down the blind. He felt his way toward the other window, struck a chair that fell over with a loud crash. Instantly Tonto froze. There was no movement within the house.

He was more certain than ever that Bart Overby was not here, but he had to make sure. Tonto lit the lamp. Tex remained flattened against the wall, gun glinting in his hand. He slowly pushed himself away.

"You take more chances than the law allows. We ought to be dead by now."

"We're searching the house," Tonto said. It did not take long. There was only a cubbyhole of a kitchen and a bedroom, equally as small, to the rear of the house. A single glance at the bed told Tonto it had not been used.

"Hasn't been here all night," Tonto said. "Sort of clinches my idea."

"Sure," Tex nodded and looked around. "But where is he?"

"We'll find him by morning," Tonto promised. He returned to the front room, placed the lamp on the table and blew it out. He groped to the door and opened it, leaving the house much more boldly than when he had entered.

Once more Tex dropped back. Tonto walked in long, purposeful strides to the main street. He paused there, looking up and down the silent, dark road. He caught the glimmer of light in the sheriff's office and, in sudden determination, walked over.

Mr. John McNulty, who specializes in discovering — and writing about — slightly zany characters in Third Avenue saloons and points adjacent, is himself a somewhat erratic bettor when the horses are running. One day he was observed leaving the press box at Churchill Downs just after a long shot had come in to pay $76 for every $2 ticket. By way of being pleasant, Joe Palmer said, "I hope you had that one." Mr. McNulty answered indignantly, "At 37 to 1? Do you think I'm crazy?"

Vance Randolph says the hills are so steep in the Ozarks that one farmer who had planted potatoes in his almost-perpendicular patch boasted, "No need to dig 'em up when they ripen. We just cut off the end of the row and let 'em fall out." Another Ozark resident declared his county was so rough that when a cyclone went through it had to be provided with an escort of State Police. "Thar's a hill at the end of my property," he concluded, "so steep you couldn't get over it if you was ridin' a turpentined wildcat!"

ONE MAN'S OPINION

The Chinese Nationalist representative accused of failing to account for $19,440,000 is working up his defense—he will claim he was just learning American customs.

I hear he will say "I have been living in Washington for eight years and I am a victim of environment."

But it just goes to show the difference between the Chinese and us—shucks, we wouldn't think of getting excited at anything under a $20,000,000 deal.

My barber wonders if the Chinese procedure in these cases is any different from ours. He says as he understands it our procedure is—accusation, defense on the ground that the accused is being smeared, Senate investigation, finding of innocent by the majority, finding of guilt by the minority, file and forget.

Next case please—and move the camera a little to the right, that's my good profile.

And I still think we're getting a more exciting series of administrations than Coolidge ever gave us.

Eighteen years ago Saturday, this company came into being at 138 W. Main street, in the midst of the big depression, in a room which was much too large and the proprietors wondered what they would do with all that space.

As time went on the store did fill up with merchandise, and you, the customers, came in increasing numbers until finally the goods and all the customers just couldn't be crowded into the space available, and this move became necessary.

The entire staff of Griffith Floorcovering invite you in Saturday, and hope you will come back time and again.

This move was made, not to increase business, but in order that we could serve you more easily and better. We sincerely hope you like this new store.

We plan to follow the same basic policy here which has been followed for years. You'll find the best of everything in the floorcovering and decorating line here.

We will feature Armstrong linoleum and when you see a new pattern on television or in the national magazines, you'll find that merchandise at Griffith Floorcovering.

You'll find the same wallpaper patterns you see in the national magazines, you'll find paint from House & Garden magazine, and in carpets if you see a Mohawk on television, or an Alexander-Smith in the magazines or a Firth carpet advertised, you can be sure of getting it here.

Visit with us Saturday. We will be glad to give you that same hearty welcome you've received for the past 18 years.

Burlesque Shows Become Iowa Political Issue

DES MOINES, Aug. 30—Burlesque shows featuring "the girl with the $50,000 treasure chest" have turned up as a political issue in Iowa.

The Democratic Party, which has been trying for years to wrest the corn state from the Republicans, charges "nudity runs riot" in the midway attractions at the state fair.

"Nothing but a narrow G-string and two tiny lily pads clothe more than a dozen girls in three shows," declared Party Chairman Jake More.

"Licentious. . . lascivious. . . and suggestive" were some of the choice terms applied by More to the strip teases.

The Democrats, who regard the fair as part of the Republican state administration, blasted the girlie shows as a disgraceful offering to Iowa farmers.

* * *

QUICK REBUTTALS to More's statement came from Fair Secretary L. B. Cunningham and Headliine Star Evelyn West, strip tease artist whose 39 1-2-inch bust is insured for $50,000.

Cunningham said he knew of no nudity or "any indecent performances on the midway. He added that inspectors check the shows daily for signs of obscenity.

Miss West emphatically denied the Democratic blast.

The attractive showgirl declared "my show is strictly a talent review—one the whole family may see."

"Strip teases and other exotic dances," she said, "are the type of entertainment Iowa farmers —and everyone else—wants."

New Evidence Uncovered On Corn Theory

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Aug. 30—A Cornell university botanist said yesterday that new evidence has been uncovered to support the theory that corn originated in Mexico and Central America.

Prof. L. F. Randolph told the American Society of Agronomy meeting at State College that two new "wild relatives" of corn have been found in southwestern Mexico. Southern Mexico and Guatemala are the only regions where all the species closely related to corn are found, he said.

Corn in its present form has been known for almost 4,000 years, Randolph noted. Recent discoveries in New Mexico included cobs similar to those of the present, except that they are much smaller.

Cobs much like them and dated 1,500 to 2,000 years later have been found in Chile.

* * *

EARLIER theory placed the point of origin in South America. It was believed that the plant was carried northward by man, and was crossed with the wild plants in Mexico, but Randolph said he found that the domestic plant and wild ones wouldn't cross.

"We still don't know for sure that corn had its beginnings in Central America," Prof. Randolph said, "but we believe that it is the most logical place to look."

Atom Tests To Resume In Nevada

Radiation Safety Assured

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30—The Atomic Energy Commission announced yesterday that test operations on both ordinary and atomic explosions will be resumed at the Nevada proving grounds "in the near future."

The AEC announcement was made public in Washington and by Carroll L. Tyler, manager of the commission's Santa Fe operations office.

Tyler said that "blast wave experiments which were announced recently and which involve detonations of small amounts of high explosives are a part of the continuing Nevada activities."

He said that permanent construction has progressed sufficiently at the Nevada proving grounds to permit its early use for test operations.

* * *

THE ANNOUNCEMENT said that the site will be used for tests "periodically," that adequate prior notice will be posted, and precautions taken to assure safety from atomic radiation both in the test area and elsewhere throughout the U.S.

In commenting on dangers from atomic radiation, Tyler said:

"Off-site radiation above normal levels which resulted from the previous Nevada tests was far below the levels which could be harmful to humans, animals or crops. Similar radiation levels which are slightly above normal may be anticipated following some experiments. This will occur not only in Nevada but also in other sections of the country.

All necessary precuations, including radiological surveys and patrolling of the surrounding territory will be undertaken to insure that safe conditions are maintained."

The AEC said that while no unofficial observers will be permitted in the upcoming tests, it "hopes" in subsequent test operations to permit observers from the press, radio and civil defense agencies.

Maine is the only state in the Union that adjoins only one other state—New Hampshire.

Deportation Hearings Set For Racketeer

CLEVELAND, Aug. 30—Frank Brancato, former Cleveland racketeer, will appear before the Federal Immigration Service in a month or so for a deportation hearing.

Immigration agents picked up Brancato yesterday on a deportation warrant. He was released under $5,000 bond a few hours later.

The warrant charged he was tried and convicted of perjury in Cleveland in 1932, less than five years from his last entry into the United States after a visit to Italy.

The perjury conviction resulted when Brancato told a grand jury in 1932 that he was not present at an east side cigar store when Raymond and Rosario Porello and a bodyguard were slain. Brancato showed up a hospital a few hours after the shooting with a bullet in his stomach. The grand jury convicted him on perjury charges and he was later sentenced to a one to 10 years prison term. Gov. Martin L. Davey released him in 1936.

Nearly one-half the total dollar value of exports and imports for the United States is handled in six major ports in New York state.

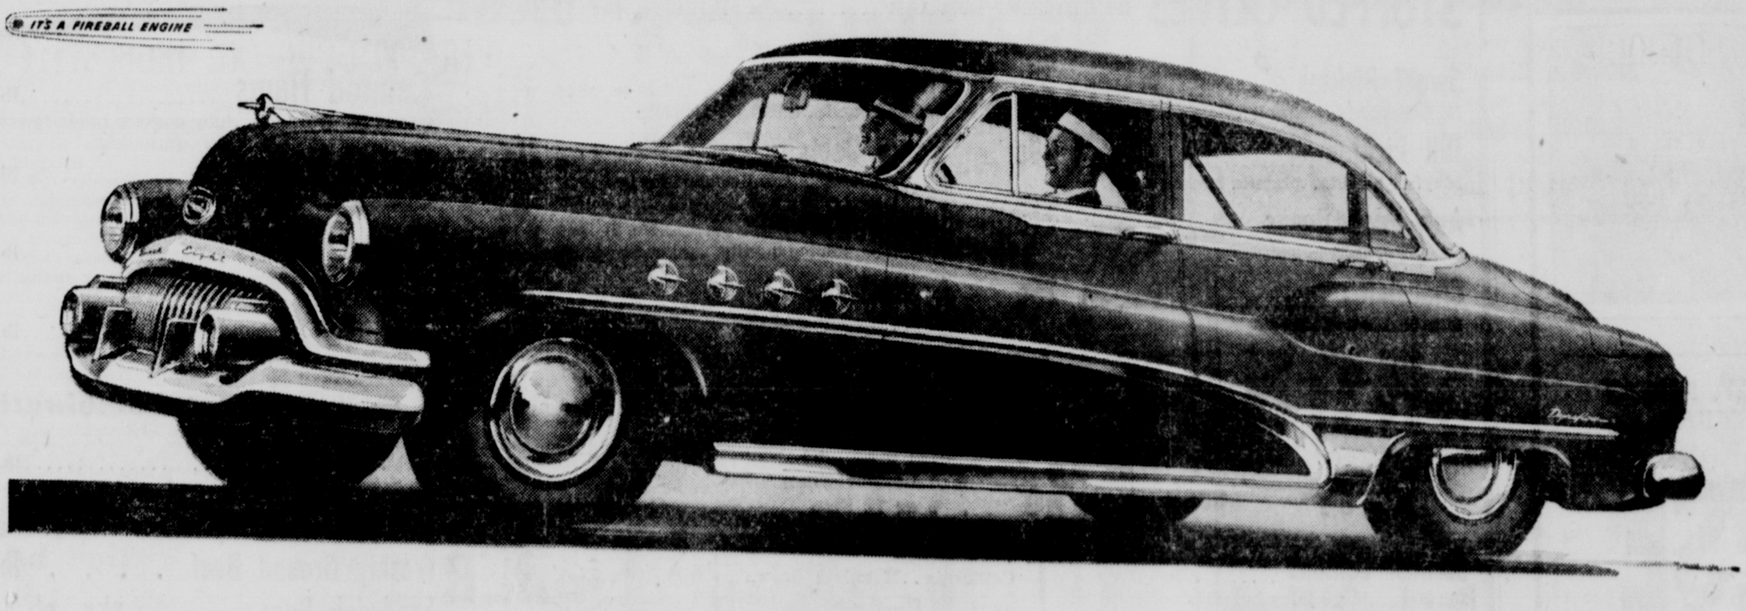
IT'S A FIREBALL ENGINE



You never tried a fine car like This One

YOU'VE a right to set your sights higher when you buy a fine car.

You can rightly expect more room—more comfort—more performance—and a lordly smoothness in the way it carries you.

So we present these facts:

You'll find, in a ROADMASTER, more usable room than you'll find in any other six-passenger car in America.

You'll find the extra comfort of double-depth Foamtex cushions in ROADMASTER only.

You'll find that the ROADMASTER has a high-compression, valve-in-head power plant that is also Buick's own—a mighty Fireball Engine endowed with more performance than most owners will ever need.

And you'll find that a ROADMASTER rolls with unsurpassed levelness and poise, thanks to coil springs on all four wheels—which is still another feature found on no other car in the fine-car field.

But the thrill that is yours, when you get this willing beauty out on the open road, is something that can't be summed up in any listing of features, one by one.

It's a "feel" which, we honestly believe, no other car can approach.

It's the sure way this dazzling performer holds the road—the way it responds to your slightest wish—the quick answer you get when you nudge the throttle—the extra security you feel in the velvet grip of the brakes—the complete freedom from tension you find in Dynaflow Drive—the sense of mastery that makes every mile a joy.

And, confidentially, there's one more important way in which ROADMASTER stands alone, and that is in the modest cost of its pounds and performance.

Better come in soon and check for yourself what a great car and a great buy this one really is.

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice.

Atom Tests To Resume In Nevada

Radiation Safety Assured

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30—The Atomic Energy Commission announced yesterday that test operations on both ordinary and atomic explosions will be resumed at the Nevada proving grounds "in the near future.

The AEC announcement was made public in Washington and by Carroll L. Tyler, manager of the commission's Santa Fe operations office.

Tyler said that "blast wave experiments which were announced recently and which involve detonations of small amounts of high explosives are a part of the continuing Nevada activities."

He said that permanent construction has progressed sufficiently at the Nevada proving grounds to permit its early use for test operations.

* * *

THE ANNOUNCEMENT said that the site will be used for tests "periodically," that adequate prior notice will be posted, and precautions taken to assure safety from atomic radiation both in the test area and elsewhere throughout the U.S.

In commenting on dangers from atomic radiation, Tyler said:

"Off-site radiation above normal levels which resulted from the previous Nevada tests was far below the levels which could be harmful to humans, animals or crops. Similar radiation levels which are slightly above normal may be anticipated following some experiments. This will occur not only in Nevada but also in other sections of the country.

All necessary precuations, including radiological surveys and patrolling of the surrounding territory will be undertaken to insure that safe conditions are maintained."

The AEC said that while no unofficial observers will be permitted in the upcoming tests, it "hopes" in subsequent test operations to permit observers from the press, radio and civil defense agencies.

Maine is the only state in the Union that adjoins only one other state—New Hampshire.

Deportation Hearings Set For Racketeer

CLEVELAND, Aug. 30—Frank Brancato, former Cleveland racketeer, will appear before the Federal Immigration Service in a month or so for a deportation hearing.

Immigration agents picked up Brancato yesterday on a deportation warrant. He was released under $5,000 bond a few hours later.

The warrant charged he was tried and convicted of perjury in Cleveland in 1932, less than five years from his last entry into the United States after a visit to Italy.

The perjury conviction resulted when Brancato told a grand jury in 1932 that he was not present at an east side cigar store when Raymond and Rosario Porello and a bodyguard were [illegible]. Brancato showed up a hospital a few hours after the shooting with a bullet in his stomach. The grand jury convicted him on perjury charges and he was later sentenced to a one to 10 years prison term. Gov. Martin L. Davey released him in 1936.

Nearly one-half the total dollar value of exports and imports for the United States is handled in six major ports in New York state.

The nations involved in the Japanese Peace Treaty today seem to be agreed on one thing at least—that most of the noise Conference will emanate from Russia.

Russia—which chalked up a total of six days of war against Japan but makes the cool claim it was responsible for Japan's surrender.

Moscow has sent a 32-man delegation headed by Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, a veteran objector.

Gromyko is keeping his strategy secret of course. He has said only that he has "certain proposals" to make at San Francisco.

The U. S. State Department likewise is silent about its main approach to the unpredictable propaganda battle.

* * *

COMMUNICATIONS between Moscow and Korea must be very good because it was noted that the Red cease-fire negotiators halted the Kaesong talks with U. N. delegates just about the time Gromyko left Moscow last week enroute to San Francisco.

This "on again, off again" attitude of the North Korean and Chinese Communists has caused a Western belief that the offer of a truce in Korea somehow will be used by Gromyko as a lever at San Francisco.

Moscow radio also has indicated partly the line that Gromyko will take, although it will be a surprise if Gromyko does not pull some sort of a surprise.

The radio theme is the obvious and usual pattern, that "American imperialists and Japanese militarists" through the projected security pact intend to gang up on the rest of Asia, that the U. S. intends to make Japan a "colony," etc.

China, which fought Japan the longest, will not be represented because of the disagreement over the rival Peiping and Formosan regimes.

Unquestionably, this absence of China will give the Soviet delegates a powerful weapon of argument. Added to the fuel is India's refusal to attend and its objection to the provision enabling U. S. troops to remain in Japan.

* * *

SOME ALREADY have attacked the Anglo - American draft as a "White Man's Treaty," and Gromyko is certain to exploit fully this feeling—the Western Powers can not treat the potential situation lightly. Their job is to remove all possible Asiatic suspicion of the treaty and to support as effectively as possible their contention that it is the best that can be created under the impact of the East-West split.

The State Department is determined that the conference is just to be a "treaty-signing" program and that Russia will not be allowed to turn the session into a "negotiating" affair.

Even so, it seems that American officials are more disturbed at the prospect of Gromyko's approaching attack than State Department spokesmen are willing to admit.

Meanwhile, there seems little chance of the armistice talks in Korea being resumed before the California meeting.

They were broken off by the Communists on what the UN command calls a fake excuse. Charges and counter-charges are expected to fill the air waves for days ahead.

When peact talks ever are resumed—as one day it seems they must be—perhaps it would be a good idea to change the meeting place.

The expediency of holding the talks in a Korean town seems to be too productive of so-called incidents to be also productive of success.

The original UN idea of putting the negotiators on a Danish hospital ship was a good one.

New Director Is Named

COLUMBUS, Aug. 30—Clyde C. McBee of Columbus will take over Saturday as the new district director for the Office of Price Stabilization.

McBee, who has been price executive for the Columbus and Southeastern Ohio District, will succeed Edward F. Wagner who resigned to return to his post with the Ohio Farm Bureau.

The new director held various posts with the old OPA in Washington and in Columbus during the last war and set up the pricing facilities in the present office.

Coffees are blended to produce various desired blends in keeping with the cost of the product.

Artist Uncorks Verbal Blast

NEW YORK, Aug. 30—Artist Maric Zamparelli let go with a verbal haymaker at British censors today because they wouldn't let him paint Jane Russell showing all "the feminine charm that nature has given to her."

The British board of film vendors required posters showing generous portions of the actress' upper anatomy to be taken down and ordered that six more inches of dress be added to more fully cover Miss Russell's shoulders.

Snorted Zamparelli: "The physical splendors of Jane Russell are too brilliant for the austerity-living British to face. . . . If they wish to be consistent, let them immediately order robes for Venus De Milo."

24 PERCENT FOR EXPANSION

Farm Real Estate Trends Highlighted By Experts

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30—Agriculture Department economists have highlighted two important trends in the recent farm real estate picture.

First, almost one out of every three farms that were sold went to city people and other non-farmers.

Second, almost one out of every four farms that were sold went for the expansion of existing farms.

Non-farm purchasers bought 32 percent of the farms sold in the year ending March 1, the largest share since 1947. There were more non-farm buyers in New England and the Middle Atlantic states, but the North Central and Mountain areas showed the biggest gain over 1950.

* * *

DEPARTMENT economists estimate that 24 percent of the farms that were sold were for expansion purposes, but the figure varies according to regions.

For example, about one-third of the tracts sold in wheat states were without building, and nearly half of all purchases were made as additions to other farms. More than one-fourth of the land sold in the corn belt and the western livestock range were for farm expansion purposes.

The economists say the tendency to enlarge existing farms is part of the trend brought about by labor-saving machines and other gains in efficiency.

Partly as a result of these developments farm sales have increased six per cent since the Spring of 1950 and farm real estate is worth about five per cent more than it was earlier this year.

Other highlights of a department real estate market report are:

A bigger than usual share of the farms sold went to people who live in another county.

More farms were bought strictly for cash, and the down-payment was larger on farms bought for credit.

Slightly more farms of lower quality were sold than is usual.

The department also said most farm owners are reluctant to sell their property because of present and prospective favorable returns. Few other investments will pay so well. Others are hesitant because of the high taxes which come with the sale of high-priced property.

Farmers To Get Slight Increases In Cattle Prices

Pickaway County farmers now can expect a slight increase in the maximum amount paid by slaughterers for their cattle.

A bulletin from the Office of Price Stabilization says the maximum ceiling prices now effective will be increased due to an increase in freight rates.

The increase in freight rates, which became effective Tuesday, will bring about small increases in the maximum calculated prices which slaughterers may pay for live cattle.

Slaughterers may use the prices before this change for their entire accounting period, or they may file separate drove compliance reports for the cattle slaughtered in each portion of the accounting period which is affected by the two sets of prices.

Both reports would be combined to determine the slaughterers drove costs compliance for the full accounting period.

Drug Pamphlets To Be Prepared

COLUMBUS, Aug. 30—Pamphlets will be prepared soon for Ohio law enforcement officers to assist them in combatting the narcotic menace.

A special subcommittee of Governor Lausche's narcotic conference met in Columbus yesterday to prepare material for the pamphlet, which will be distributed to Ohio's 8,600 officials.

The booklet will describe symptoms of a person addicted to the use of narcotics and of the drugs themselves and a summary of the legal aspects of the anti-narcotic campaign, outlining Ohio and federal laws. Pictures of drug addicts will also be used.

The final draft of the pamphlet will be made at a meeting of the subcommittee Sept. 10.

Refund Suit Is Filed

DAYTON, Aug. 30 — Financial Director Earl Hagerman said yesterday that an adverse decision in a refund suit pending in common pleas court will cost Dayton $1,194,000 in city income tax refunds.

Hagerman said the suit asks for a return of $494,000 to persons who filed declarations under the old city income tax law, declared unconstitutional by the Ohio supreme court.

In a previous suit in which the court decided against the city, refunds were estimated at between $600,000 and $700,000.

Since the voiding of the original law, Dayton has a new city income tax law adopted by referendum.

These Days

For this is true: our civilization is deeply rooted in the Old and New Testaments, in the Bible of both the Jews and the Christians. Without this foundation, all that we believe to be true must wither and die. Already, in countries of which Dr. Van Dusen wrote in his book only four years ago, we witness the resurgence of brutality, the torture of decent people for their ideas, their beliefs, their faith.

Already we are being faced by the corruption of our own children under our very eyes by so-called scientific methods which teach them that every concept that built their world of liberty is superstition. Even our political system blossoms on the stem of the declaration of independence, which in its preamble makes clear that those inalienable rights which our young people are taught to cherish as the Bill of Rights emanate from nature's God and nature's law.

This is our foundation and we must protect it or our world becomes like the sand of the desert, blinding the spirit, fruitless and unproductive.

Local Landlords Asked To Help In Housing Shortage

Lockbourne Problem Is Growing

New Families Arrive Daily

Pickaway County landlords are being called upon to remedy a housing problem accompanying the recent expansion of the Lockbourne Airforce base.

Scores of military families arriving daily at the Lockbourne air base are encountering a common problem—the inability to find a suitable place to live if they have children.

The base housing office reports numerous calls offering apartments and houses for rent in the area. These addresses are passed on to the newly arrived service families who, upon investigation, find that nine out of ten landlords will turn thumbs down on a family with children.

Today, men in the military are primarily men who have chosen the service as a profession. They are no different from the civilian who has chosen banking or baking as a profession. In fact, within this army of professional military men can be found the military counterpart of the civilian banker and baker—their jobs are basically the same and both lead the same kind of life when they are not working.

* * *

THE FAMILIES of the serviceman and the civilian are essentially the same. The serviceman's children live in a civilian community, go to civilian schools, enjoy ice cream sodas at the corner drug store, think movies are the best way to pass Saturday afternoon, would like to own a dog and a pony, and are subject to such childhood ailments as measles, whooping cough and an occasional show of temperment when they fail to get what they want.

The main difference in the serviceman and the civilian is that the serviceman has no control of his duty station—if he is ordered to Lockbourne, he must report there.

The men now seeking housing in the area were ordered here. Now that they are here they have no choice but to stay. They are the first to realize that if air bases like Lockbourne are to be built and manned, it is their duty to build and maintain such stations.

The number of incoming personnel at Lockbourne has reached its peak. If housing can be found for the families now seeking a place to live the problem will be under control.

Base Commander Colonel George W. Humbrecht made an earlier appeal to the civilian community near the base for furnished and unfurnished two and three bedroom listings. The response has been good with the exception of the reluctance shown to servicemen with children.

Many of the families with two or more children are experiencing great difficulty in obtaining a suitable place to live. Anyone who has a place to rent or knows of a place that might take care of some of these families is urged to contact his own realtor, who will in turn notify the proper officials at the Airforce base.

Pond Mystery Cleared Up

CHICAGO, Aug. 30—The mystery of an expanding pond near Chicago's Midway Airport has been cleared up.

It all started with a tiny puddle last Spring. But water covered several square blocks of the undeveloped area yesterday when the airport asked city authorities to investigate the source.

Water and fire department engineers donned hip boots and waded into the swamp.

Soon they came across a city water hydrant spouting a six-inch stream.

Neighborhood children who had been wading in the pond were crestfallen when told that the city is shutting off the hydrant because nearby, open manholes were a hazard and the water was a mosquito breeding nuisance.

Colorado is named from the Spanish word for "red."
